FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

QUASONIX BROADENS ITS REPRESENTATION NETWORK WITH THE ADDITION OF ELOTEK SYSTEMS

West Chester, Ohio, November 10, 2008 – Quasonix, LLC, developer of high performance aeronautical telemetry systems, announced today that the company has added Elotek Systems as an authorized representative of its telemetry products in the western United States region. With the signing, Elotek joins Quasonix’ other domestic sales representatives, AeroGear (Southeast) and Tech Marketing Associates (Northern California).

“Elotek brings customer knowledge, experience, and a great reputation to the table,” said Terry Hill, president and chief scientist of Quasonix. “They’ll extend our market presence in a critical region while also providing tremendous support for our current and future customers.”

Elotek Systems is a solutions' provider committed to the selling and marketing of technical solutions and products, which include sensing, measuring, conditioning, telemetering, recording and processing of data. Customers include aerospace, industrial, medical and military markets as well as OEM's, systems integrators, VARs, engineers and end-users. Elotek offers its services throughout the Western United States, Alaska and Hawaii.

“Elotek is pleased to partner with a company like Quasonix; one that is continuously reinvesting in product development and producing advanced, high efficiency, cost effective products,” said Mike Elovitz, president and CEO of Elotek.
